UPDATE NATIONAL SECURITY CUTTER

The U.S. Coast Guard is America's Guardian. First responder for maritime commerce, natural disasters and homeland security challenges. Deepwater is changing the face of the U.S. Coast Guard. Building the tools it needs now to do what it does best—only better and faster. The Deepwater program is surging forward and building the first two hulls of the newest multi-mission cutter in the Deepwater fleet. The centerpiece of the Coast Guard's Deepwater acquisition program, this ship will be the most technically advanced class of cutter in existence. And part of a larger effort that includes putting advanced command, control and communications systems on Coast Guard cutters today, building new maritime patrol aircraft, and updating helicopters with stronger power systems. So that the Coast Guard will continue to be ready to protect and serve the American people. Always.
